

Attorney Docket NA-1238

LOW COST PARACHUTE

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

6 A parachute includes first strips of fabric configurable to 7 define a pattern wherein the first strips are separated from each 8 other and extend parallel to each other, and second strips of 9 fabric configurable to further define the pattern wherein the 10 second strips are separated from each other and extend parallel to 11 each other and normal to the first strips, the number of first 12 strips being equal to the number of second strips. The first and 13 second strips cross each other to define vent holes. The ends of 14 the strips are connected to suspension lines which are extendible
15 to a confluence area for support of an article of cargo.
